Edition of 2026-08-17 · 3 systems and instruments tracked, 1 of them not held

Developments recorded from artefacts published between 2026-07-01 and 2026-08-14 — July 2026 carried forward to the date of issue, so the report holds the nightly catch to the day it was cut. Sections follow the status report.

Summary of the month

Two developments were recorded between 1 July and 11 August 2026. The Instituto Nacional de Estatística released preliminary RGPH4 census results on 23 July, putting the resident population at 2,191,202 — the country's first new population baseline since 2009 and its first fully digital census. The next day, AUDA-NEPAD launched its Programme for African Developing Island Economies at a ministerial segment in Abidjan, naming Guinea-Bissau among seven island states under a 2026–2031 roadmap that includes digital transformation as one of six pillars.

National statistics

The Instituto Nacional de Estatística released RGPH4 preliminary results on 23 July 2026, putting resident population at 2,191,202 — cut from a raw collected base of 2,246,300 after correction for repeated names, against 1,449,230 in 2009. 50.7% are women and 45.7% urban; 304,939 households, 559,303 dwellings and 376,258 buildings were enumerated, using computer-assisted personal interviewing throughout. UNFPA and the World Bank financed the census; demographic, social, economic and housing tabulations are to be released progressively over the coming months.

Governance and regulation

Legislation and regulation

The digital integrity law was passed unanimously with amendments by the transitional parliament on 21 May, framed by the government spokesman as targeting those who spread hate and act against the State, with enforcement mechanisms, including for citizens abroad, left unstated. Its publication and in-force dates are unconfirmed. It was first invoked on 21 July by the communications ministry over a false claim that TikTok was being shut down in the country — the first use the base records, and it is the state correcting a claim about itself.

Regional collaboration

AUDA-NEPAD launched the Programme for African Developing Island Economies at the Ministerial Segment of the Specialized Technical Committee on Trade, Industry and Minerals in Abidjan on 24 July 2026, covering Guinea-Bissau alongside Cabo Verde, the Comoros, Madagascar, Mauritius, Sao Tome and Principe and Seychelles. A 2026–2031 roadmap groups the seven states under six pillars, including connectivity and AfCFTA integration and digital transformation — with digital public infrastructure, artificial intelligence and automation named as accelerators. Ministers adopted a communique committing to the programme; no Guinea-Bissau-specific national action under it has yet been reported.

Figures are dated because most are time-varying: a figure carries the date it was true, not the date you are reading it. Where the base holds no reliable statement, the document says Not held rather than leaving a silence — those are counted, and listed at the end.

This is a dated edition and is not revised after publication. If a figure here has moved, the current edition will say so.
